Dr. Dave Lenihan is an experienced educator with a passion for life-long learning and an entrepreneurial streak. He is the President / CEO of Ponce Health Sciences University and CEO of Arist Medical Education holdings, an investment group in higher education. Prior to being named President at Ponce, he was the Chief Academic Officer for Arist Holdings and Dean at Touro College of Osteopathic Medicine.

His expertise is in student assessment, using technology to improve the medical education curriculum and how analytics can be used to improve the student experience and promote excellence in education.

Dr. Lenihan graduated from Illinois Wesleyan University with a degree in biology and pure mathematics, received his Doctor of Chiropractic degree from Palmer University (Iowa) and then went to the University of Edinburgh (UK) to complete his Ph.D. in the department of Medicine on new methods in peripheral nerve repair and assessment. He received his J.D. from Touro College of Law (NY).